The hole is a wrenching hole with no bottom. This film may have some twists and turns but it's well levelled out. Teenage emo finds an unusual locked door in the attic. Dane, and Lucas go to investigate, but all turns bad. Also the film has some spooky music to go with the scene to give the film a kick. The film is levelled out by funny scenes or props used.

When Dane (the teenage emo) eventually goes down the hole, he finds a lost world. The effects make this look like the place is really dark. Each bit has an object or a person that save them. In addition the must master the fears to move everything in the hole.

Despite that The Hole is deceivingly dark, it turns your fears into reality. That did the same thing to Dane, Lucas and Julie. The hole itself is bottomless. The story is unpredictable and can sometimes be levelled out with comedy. Back to the story, when they opened the hole, different scenes were full of dark palettes of colours.

In the story, there were many variations of the darkness.

The hole despite its normal deceiving looks, is actually impossibly dark. Also, you will be scared because you don't know where it goes. When the hole is open everything appears in dark palette of colours. This makes the hole feels like it doesn't have an end.

Even though it's scary, you still have to face your fears. But facing your fears is not really that scary. Sometimes what you expect is not really what you get. Despite all the terrifying twists you'll still don't know what happens.

Some unexpected things in the film, will make your mind blow away. Although they face the living and the dead they still have to carry on facing their fears. However their Mum appears to be in a bliss. Also a dead girl and clown follows them where they go.
